

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns a process for producing bound documents in any thickness, of the type wherein several sheets of material are loosely bound by at least one binding element, preferably formed from wire. According to an aspect of the 5 invention, a process is provided for forming at least one binding element immediately prior to the binding process.

0904741-108277